We are pleased to present our new season brochure, with the very best of regional drama, music and comedy provided for your entertainment, as well as workshops to participate in and exhibitions to view.

This season sees the Burnavon playing host to the cream of Northern Ireland’s professional and amateur theatre. In February, we have the Northern Ireland premier of Big Telly’s ‘Melmoth the Wanderer’ as they celebrate their 25th year in theatre. Greenshoot Productions present ‘Brothers in Arms’ directed by Martin Lynch, and Conor McPherson’s ‘The Weir’ is staged by Pomeroy Players.

‘Carthaginians’ by Frank McGuinness, one of the few enduring plays born out of ‘The Troubles’, is presented in March by Millennium Forum Productions. Directed by Adrian Dunbar this promises to be one of the highlights of the season. Prime Cut Productions, are back with their hilarious and moving homage to the working man ‘Shoot the Crow’. The month is rounded up by ‘Marianne Dreams’ performed by award winning children’s theatre company, Replay.

Drama also takes centre stage in April with Agape Dramatic Society making their welcome return to the Burnavon, with a brand new musical by Eleanor Crymble. Belvoir Players also return with the much loved Sam Cree play ‘Widow’s Paradise’.

‘A Night with George’, the hilarious, award winning, hit comedy from Brassneck Theatre Company, became an overnight sensation at the West Belfast Festival in 2009 before going on to sell out across Northern Ireland and further afield. It comes to the Burnavon in May.

Musical highlights include Robert Mizzell & guest, Lisa McHugh; The Máirtín O’Connor Band; Justin McGurk; Mike Denver; The Illegals featuring Niamh Kavanagh; Kenny Archer and James Huish, among many others. There is a rare opportunity at the end of May to see three of the finest songwriters and performers of their generation, as Brendan Murphy (The Four of Us), Brian Houston and Anthony Toner come together for a very special concert.

Ballet UK in association with the Tyrone Courier visit us for the first time when they present the magical tale of Sleeping Beauty. For those looking some light relief, there’s also plenty of comedy to choose from. We’ve listened to your feedback and the Burnavon Comedy Club is back! Igor Bolshoikirov, the alter-ego of Moneymore man Cormac O’Donnell, presents his own unique take on life in Cookstown. Tim McGarry, Brendan Grace, the Give My Head Peace gang, and Kevin McAleer keep the laughs coming. So sit back enjoy the craic and all that is in store this spring at the Burnavon. Hope to see you here,

Melmoth the Wanderer: a colourful, condensed and quirky show based on the first ever horror novel, adapted by the hugely popular Big Telly and scripted by Nicola McCartney.

Five chancers present a terrifying tale of temptation, torture and a traveller desperate to find someone to take over his pact and release him from immortality. Who will take on his curse? His only surviving relative; or a stranger in the depths of despair; or an innocent child brought up on a desert island with no knowledge of the world?

Comic surrealism meets shock horror in a series of ridiculous situations where innocent eccentrics struggle to survive. A random playground of the bizarre inspired by Saw, Psycho, Tim Burton and Fawlty Towers using projection, animation and squeaky toys. This is the sort of delirious chaos that sets Big Telly apart from other companies.

BROTHERS IN ARMS
PRESENTED BY
Greenshoot Productions

Date
Mon 20 Feb at 8pm
Tickets
£12 / £10 (Con)

Written by Sam Millar
Directed by Martin Lynch
Designed by David Craig

Following the sell-out successes of ‘Chronicles of Long Kesh’ and ‘Over the Bridge’, Greenshoot Production presents its new play, Brothers in Arms.

Written by the former republican prisoner and novelist Sam Millar, this exciting new play tells the story of two brothers - one a dissident republican, the other a Sinn Fein MLA – who come together to bury their father.

Despite their mother’s pleas to let their father rest in peace, old resentments and family secrets rise to the surface in this explosive look at the divisions in modern-day republicanism.

‘The Weir’ is an enthralling and engaging exercise in storytelling as four men meet in their local bar in the fictional town of Carrick.

Each person’s life and their relationship with their locality and friends starts to unravel as they take turns to try and impress Valerie, a visiting girl from Dublin, with their tall tales of ghosts, fairies and mysterious happenings.

Just as they think they have outdone one another, Valerie herself makes a dramatic and spine-tingling contribution to the proceedings…

Following his sell-out show at the Burnavon last year, Mike returns with a mix of his own well-known hits, country classics and timeless tunes. Accompanied by his excellent backing band and a super stage show, this promises to be one of the highlights of the season.

Special guests include legendary country singers Philomena Begley, Ray Lynam and Brendan Quinn.

After last year’s memorable Gospel night, Bloomhill RBP 1147 are again supported in their Gospel concert by popular local group the 1147ers; singers Paul Irwin and Kathryn Mitchell; The Thompson Brothers (ex-Low Country Boys); and the second Burnavon appearance for Live Issue. CARTHAGINNIANS BY FRANK MCGUINNESS
PRESENTED BY Millennium Forum Productions

Date  Thurs 8 Mar at 8pm
Tickets  £12

Directed by Adrian Dunbar

Frank McGuinness’ ‘Carthaginians’ has often been acknowledged as one of the few enduring plays to have emerged from ‘The Troubles’. An elegy for Bloody Sunday in Derry, it is the survival of tragedy, of intense grief which becomes the unspoken subject through the personal journeys of three women and three men who camp out in a graveyard awaiting the rise of the dead.

Dido is the outsider who brings daily pram loads of supplies including a script of his own attempt at a Troubles Play, The Burning Balaclava, the comic centrepiece which is surrounded by jokes, quizzes and encounters which pass the time of waiting. Individual resurrections signal a community, like Carthage, rising from its ashes.

This production commemorates the 40th anniversary of Bloody Sunday and, appropriately within the theme of Carthaginians celebrates the 10th anniversary of the Millennium Forum.

Irish language publications from the last 200 years are the focus of this exhibition. Beginning with Bolg an Tsolair, published in 1795 in Belfast, it looks at the growth and development of the language, through the medium of periodicals, newspapers and newsletters, and how the Irish speaking community used these resources to promote the language. It ends in the 21st century, with websites and blogs available on the Internet.

Featuring the paintings of local artist, Jane McNally who lives on a small farm at the foot of Slieve Gallion, this exhibition documents many famous racehorses, animals and the rapidly disappearing rural built heritage.

Jane began painting over ten years ago, and is inspired by the countryside around her and her keen interests in history, traditional architecture, vintage tractors, animals, and her love of horseracing. Jane says ‘My favourite artists are George Stubbs, for his understanding of horses, and Victor Ambrus, for his wonderful scruffy illustrations.’
